Dear Team Leader,

I would like to share a quick update on our group project. The research work has been completed, and we have gathered the main information required for the project. The team has also divided the remaining tasks and is currently working on the presentation and final report.

One of the main difficulties we experienced was finding a suitable time for everyone to work together. We also needed some extra time to collect information for a few sections. These issues have now been discussed, and the team is continuing with the remaining work.

We are planning to complete the project by [25th of this month]. Once everything is finished, we will review the project as a team and make the final corrections before submission.

Please share any suggestions or additional requirements you may have.

Regards,
K.Nandan Sai,
